

The diagram shows a template for an A4 folder, single-sided. It features a large central rectangular area for the main content. To the left of this area is a vertical strip representing the folder's spine, which includes a small rectangular pocket at the top. The entire layout is defined by three concentric borders: a thick blue outer line, a thin light blue middle line, and a thin magenta inner line. The magenta line follows the shape of the folder, including the spine and pocket. The text and instructions are located on the right side of the main content area.
